Title: Attitudes of UK FTVS students toward esports.

Objective: The main aim of this thesis is to identify what attitudes students of Charles University have to esports. We will also discuss whether the students would accept esports as one of the Olympic disciplines, and if esports are even perceived as a full-fledged sport.

Methods: The method used for the bachelor thesis was quantitative questioning. Data were obtained by using an electronic questionnaire.

Results: The results point to the penetration of esports into the consciousness of students. This is confirmed by the high overall know-how in the foreign and also domestic esports scene. Students attitudes towards esports are relatively neutral. The opinion of the students for the inclusion of esports in the Olympic Games was negative, because according to the research, they do not perceive esports as a full-fledged sport.
